

HELP SHAPE THE FUTURE OF EALING

If you live or work in the borough, we want you to have your say and help shape how the borough should develop over the next 15 years.

The council has been working on a blueprint for the future of the area, called the Local Development Framework. It looks at how planning will be managed for a range of subjects that affect our everyday lives.

Initial proposals are set out in a document called the Development Strategy 2026 (a 15-year plan which we aim to start using from 2011). The strategy will guide the management of all developments in the borough. It will affect how, where and when the council will allow new housing, create new jobs, protect green spaces and our heritage, provide community facilities and ensure transport services are as they should be.

We have been working closely with experts from other organisations but, most importantly, we want our community to be at the centre of our decisions.

Consultation meetings start September. Come along and find out more details about the plans and have your say. See overleaf for dates and locations.
